

2020 Bread and Viennoiserie Training Series

Our intensive program, with a high level of hands-on, fully prepares students for a professional baking career

Overview

Our Bread and Viennoiserie Training Series prepare students that are passionate about baking to advance in their career, take the next steps into opening a bakery or work in the baking industry.

San Francisco Baking Institute (SFBI) recognizes that not every student has the time and the budget available for 12-18 months of training. At the same time, students want to be sure they receive the very best education to ensure success in the future.

We designed our progressive program to meet these specific needs, developing a highly concentrated focused curriculum with an exceptional level of hands-on practice and deliberately small classes. Our state-of-the-art facility, just a short drive from downtown San Francisco, offers spacious classrooms and technologically advanced equipment, giving students the rare opportunity to train in a production environment very similar to most modern baking facilities.

Since 1996, SFBI has trained thousands of professional and aspiring bakers from all over the world. We have acted as the unofficial training site for several award-winning Baking USA Teams and hosted a variety of international groups, from countries including Russia, China and Japan, interested in bringing artisan baking back to their homelands.

SFBI is recognized as a place where artisan

Our passion of sharing our knowledge and enthusiasm in an effort to raise the level of the craft is well-known throughout the baking community. As the only school in the U.S. dedicated exclusively to artisan baking and pastry, the San Francisco Baking Institute is the place where better baking begins.

“My training at SFBI gave me a professional foundation of growing and succeeding in the baking industry.”

Why SFBI?

There are many choices as you consider your options for training. SFBI's program offers several unique features.

- Hands-on Training: Our curriculum includes an unusually high level of hands-on practice.
- Individuals Attention: We commit to small class sizes with a maximum of 16 students
- Intensive Learning: During SFBI's program, you will train for full days, rather than the half days at many other schools. In total, the training hours are almost identical, while the overall time commitment is less.
- Advanced Equipment: SFBI's technologically advanced equipment and spacious bakery classrooms are similar to those found in a typical modern bakery.
- Real World Scale: Because of the scale of our facility, SFBI students bake a high volume of bread and pastries, developing valuable production skills.
- Location: Our state-of-the-art facility is just a short drive from downtown San Francisco, where students can unwind and explore during off hours.

“This program has been one of the best experiences of my life. I have really loved being at SFBI and have been inspired to work in the baking industry.”

Curriculum

Training Series Descriptions

Series I: Fundamentals of Baking

In the first week of our hands-on series, you will learn all aspects applicable to bread baking. This will become a very important foundation for you to understand advanced levels of artisan baking. You will be familiarized with important steps of baking, including mixing, dividing, pre-shaping, shaping and baking. You will also learn how to operate baking equipment such as spiral mixers and oven loaders.

During the first half of this series, baguettes are used as a medium to experiment with different mixing techniques, and with different types of flour. Functionalities of basic ingredients – flour, water, salt and yeast – are explained in detail, as well as how mixing and fermentation are closely related to each other.

Another important topic covered in this series is preferments, including poolish, sponge and pre-fermented dough. You will learn how preferments have various effects on dough properties, and in the final products.

During the second half of this series, you will work with different types of flours such as whole wheat and rye flour, as well as enriched doughs like challah and egg bread. You will practice on various shaping techniques, starting from boules and batards to intricate braids and French regional shapes. Basic concept of sourdough is explained at the end of this series. You will learn different styles of sourdough, and the impact they have on the final products.

The last day of this series is the practical exam. You will be working as a group to review important concepts and formulas. The instructor will give production assignments to each group, and the products are evaluated at the end of the day.

Series II: Sourdough, Whole Grain and Alternative Grains

In this series, the selection of breads becomes more diverse. Different styles of sourdough are incorporated into daily production. You will learn how sourdough starters are elaborated from scratch and how to maintain them on day to day basis. Factors affecting starter characteristics are explained, such as hydration, fermentation temperature and feeding schedules. Understanding these topics will help you create your own sourdough bread with desired characteristics.

The retarding technique is introduced in this series as a new concept. This is a very important concept to know when you are in a bakery production. You will learn the pros and cons of different styles of retarding, using both yeasted and naturally leavened doughs. The first half of this week includes hands-on production of country bread, olive bread, raisin walnut bread, ciabatta with poolish, and many other favorites.

The next topic covered in this week is baking with whole grain flour, primarily focusing on whole wheat flour. Breads made with different percentage of whole wheat flour are compared, and the discussion covers how to apply whole grain flours in natural and yeasted preferments and in final formulas. You will be producing multigrain, 100% whole wheat sourdoughs, among others.

The second half of this series focuses on working with specialty flours, including alternative grains such as Kamut® and spelt, gluten-free grains such as buckwheat, millet and teff. A variety of breads will be baked every day, including Kamut® baguette, pear-buckwheat bread, and teff with sunflower seeds. You will also work with a selection of German style rye breads with different percentages of rye flour, including two castle rye and volkornbrot.

The last day of this series is the practical exam to review what you have learned in the bread series.

Series III: Viennoiserie

The first half of this series covers fundamentals of viennoiserie production. You will be introduced to our pastry lab and new equipment such as planetary mixers and reversible sheeters. The main focus is to learn mixing and handling of both laminated and non-laminated viennoiserie.

Products made this week include a variety of enriched dough, such as brioche and sticky buns. Using croissant dough, you will practice different shaping and assembly processes for traditional, chocolate, and almond croissants. A wide range of shaping techniques will be introduced using Danish dough. Different lamination techniques, as well as several types of retarding methods are practiced. A selection of creams and fillings are made in this series to finish Danish and puff pastries. Using puff pastry dough as a base, a variety of products will be produced, including turnovers, palmiers and napoleons.

Later in this series teaches more advanced theory and techniques in viennoiserie. You will make a variety of pastries from both laminated and non-laminated doughs. Products made during this week include regional specialties and holiday breads, such as panettone with levain, pan d'Oro, stollen, gibassier and pithivier. The lecture includes how to work with Italian levain, which is used in several classic Italian holiday breads. Selections of laminated products include kouign amann, laminated brioche and inverted puff pastry.

The last day of this week is the practical exam to review the viennoiserie series.

Series IV: Bakery Business Essentials

In this series, important concepts to start a small bakery operation are covered. The discussion includes equipment selection, food and labor cost, bakery layout and more.

One important topic explained in this series is how to create a production schedule for yeasted bread, sourdough and viennoiserie items, which is necessary for an efficient bakery operation. During the hands-on production time, students will be working in groups and establish their own production schedule. The products include essential items at any artisan bakeries, such as country bread, baguettes, ciabatta and croissants, as well as pastries such as cookies, scones and muffins.

Series V: French Diploma Program

This curriculum is adapted from the “Baker, level IV” exam offered at a renowned baking school in France, L’ecole Internationale de Boulangerie (EIDB). For bakers in France, the skill set obtained from acquiring this diploma is needed in order to operate a bakery. SFBI will act as a host facility to offer the identical exam program here in the US.

This 2-week program is designed to assess the skill level of participant in both baking production and operational management with a comprehensive exam. In the production aspect of the program, your production abilities for a variety of products such as bread, viennoiserie and pastry are tested. This will also be adjacent to the entrepreneurial aspect of the program, which will be to prepare and present your own personal business plan, production and financial spreadsheet.

During the first week, our SFBI team will guide you through this process with immense amount of support to create and present some of your best work yet. The second week is the actual exams, assessed by a panel of judges.
